

1. I explored the Smithsonian archive, the special teaching collections and primary sources archives. The special collections archive and primary sources archives are similar but one is a derivation of the other.
2. I explored the air and space files of the Smithsonian archive and was surprised about the pictures documenting different historical artifacts
3. I was frustrated there were not more article-like files with deeper dives and explanations
4. Decisions are made by scholars and experts in committees and conventions
5. I explored the Smithsonian air and space archive because I was more interested in it
6. Other archival lists that are worth exploring are the primary sources archive
7. I am interested in the extent of archives and what exactly can be learned from one
8. I must keep in mind my original question and stay on track
9. I am interested in past aerospace industry scandals
